Key Findings & Highlights

This NelsonHall vendor assessment analyzes Cloudify's offerings and capabilities in cloud infrastructure brokerage, orchestration, and management services.

Cloudify is an orchestration platform provider and will invariably just provide platform set-up, with its model based on an annual subscription fee. The bulk of activity including managed services is carried out either by a client's in-house IT team or major systems integrators.

Cloudify's orchestration platform is designed to improve system performance through cloud application and configuration automation. In addition to managing a wide variety of on-premise servers, clouds, and network devices. Cloudify can manage multiple clouds simultaneously as well as automate cloud infrastructure and application changes.

Cloudify enables enterprises to connect, automate, and manage the infrastructure and networking environments of their applications pipeline across private, public, hybrid, and multi-cloud. Cloudify's end-to-end modular orchestration platform automates complex systems (and cloud automation) by abstracting applications and networks from the underlying infrastructure.
